

I have only one comment:

Although there are references to agency statutory obligations, I find them understated. Because of these rule of law concerns, I would add a sentence, with case citations, noting that agencies cannot issue waivers if the statutory framework mandates full enforcement and that where statutes permit nonenforcement agencies cannot issue waivers in an arbitrary fashion. The sentence could appear in a footnote.

Anne Joseph O'Connell