

Comment from Ronald Levin, Senior Fellow, on Public Availability of Information About Agency Adjudicators
December 14, 2020

When I read the title of the proposed recommendation on “Public Availability of Information About Agency Adjudicators,” it led me to expect that the recommendation would deal with information about the identities, and perhaps the bios, of the specific people who do the adjudicating. Yet, out of all the information that the draft says should be disclosed, that information is not included (nor do I think it should be). Perhaps “Public Availability of Information About Agency Adjudication Procedures” would be a better title.
