Events of the Administrative Conference of the United States are generally open to the public and input from the media, government, members of the public, academia, the bar, and the business community is welcome.

Members of the media seeking answers to questions concerning research projects, studies, recommendations or any other topics should contact the Communications Director. Administrative Conference transcripts, archival photographs, film or audio clips are available on the Administrative Conference website.

Interview Requests

All requests for interviews with administration and staff should be made through the Communications Director.

Committee Meetings/Plenary Sessions

Members of the media wishing to attend are asked to RSVP to the Communications Director. Advance notice is appreciated due to space limitations.

Because the location of these sessions may vary, members of the media seeking to attend should contact the Communication Director directly for complete details.

Other items to note:

Photography or filming for the purpose of promoting commercial products or other commercial interests is not allowed.

News media wishing to broadcast live from within the Administrative Conference premises are asked to give advance notification so that Security can facilitate the parking of satellite trucks. Live broadcasts of actual events may not be possible due to space limitations.
