Dear Ms. Nowacki and Team,

Hope you are well. I am an inventor, entrepreneur and professor from Colorado. I have licensed my patents to some of the world's most successful companies – including Dell, Facebook and Sony.

Having said that, it is incredibly difficult for small inventors to get deals with large companies. When licensing attempts fail, current patent litigation simply does not make economic sense for the inventor or the potential licensee/defendant. I am strongly in favor of a Small Claims Patent Court. It will allow “small” deals to get done without District Court litigation or IPRs.

I know you are incredibly busy and I appreciate your important work on this matter. Please feel free to reach out to me with any questions.

Thanks. All the Best!
